

Thinking Fast and Slow - Source Brief

This team-written brief summarizes a public reference about ideas popularized by Daniel Kahneman.

System 1 is fast, automatic, and intuitive, which makes everyday judgments efficient. System 2 is slower, deliberate, and effortful, and is used for analytical or complex problems.

Neither system is universally better; context and awareness of bias matter for decisions.

Public source:

<https://thedecisionlab.com/reference-guide/philosophy/system-1-and-system-2-thinking>

Rights: team-written paraphrase